NO. 89.

THE BOGUS NOBLEMEN.

A SIMPLE METHOD OF UNMASKING THE PRETENDERS.

Counts That Are of No Account—Barons Who Are Barren of All Honor—Marquises Without a Mark of Distinction—Americans Easily Taken In.

On any fine day you can see a dozen fraudulent noblemen airing themselves on upper Broadway.

A bogus laron, a counterfeit count, a misallied marquis, should never impose on anybody.

How can they be detected?

Easily enough. Suppose you have a nobleman presented to you; the first thing you should do is to look at him.

But your bogus nobleman nearly always presents himself. Then go to the consulate of his country.

A sure detector.

There it is easy to satisfy yourself of his identity. Generally speaking, although not always, real noblemen register at the consulate on their arrival in New York, but every count, even if the gentleman has not recorded there, is more or less able to give information as to noblemen belonging to their country.

Thanks to the English Peerage (Burke's and Debrett's) and the German Gothische, Grafen und Freiherrn Calendar, as well as to the army lists of both countries, it is pretty easy to get at the facts.

And there are so many real noblemen and officers of the German and English armies here in this city that the bogus article could easily be detected by being confronted with the real one.

The impostor is generally good looking and distinguishes himself by a dangerous knowledge of what he is talking about, depending on his good looks and his cheek to carry him through.

And our rich girls, blinded by what they believe to be the honor of being courted by a real live lord or count, fall on easy terms to the unscrupulous fortune hunter.

Counterfeit noblemen and real noblemen, who have so far forgotten what is due to their name, that they closely resemble the bad article, abound and always will abound in a great cosmopolitan city like New York.

As long as the present inordinate love for titles exists in this enlightened republic, people must not be astonished if they are the dupes of such as have a smattering of education and the cheek to call themselves by a high sounding title.

All these counterfeit noblemen have one characteristic—that is, on all possible occasions they will brag of their noble descent and will tell the most wonderful stories of their doings at home and of the doings of their ancestors generations before them.

The latest specimen who has been annoying various families, particularly that of Mr. William Steinway, represented himself as a nephew of the latter, called himself at various times Count Bonin, Count von Arnim, Baron Fieditz and various other names. What his real intentions were have not been found out as yet. Inspector Byrnes of the metropolitan police has nipped his career in the bud.

SPECIMENS OF THE SPURIOUS.

A peculiar and rather amusing case once came under the notice of the writer, himself for long years an officer in the Prussian service. He used to lunch regularly at a down town restaurant, when one day he was told by the proprietor that he had an ex-officer, who was down on his luck, as waiter.

The said waiter claimed to be a Count X—, and said that he was a first lieutenant in a crack cavalry regiment of the Guards. The writer was rather curious to see the waiter, as he had personally known Count X—. He was rather skeptical as to the waiter's identity, seeing that he told wonderful stories of his prowess during the Franco-German war, the count in reality having entered the army only after the close of the campaign.

At last the waiter made his appearance, and after having been taken to task he acknowledged that he was not the count, but was once the count's servant. The latter fact accounted for his intimate knowledge of the count's family affairs.

Many are the cases where American wives have married bogus noblemen and suffered bitterly for it afterward, simply because they did not take the trouble to make inquiries, but believed everything the smooth tongued rascals said.

The writer was talking on Fifth Avenue with a gentleman, when the name of a marquis was mentioned. On asking what nationality the marquis was, he received as answer:

"Oh, he is not really a marquis, only we all call him so."

The most dangerous are the Italian, Spanish and French marquises and other noblemen, as titles of nobility exist in those countries to such an extent that they are really difficult to classify.

All this makes it very hard for such noblemen who come here to gain a footing in good society, as people have been so often duped by the spurious article that when an authentic man comes he is apt to be looked on with a dubious eye.

If the consulates here are not able to give information, it is easy enough to write to the American consuls in London, Berlin, or whatever country the claimant of the title comes from, to receive authentic information.

But as long as the inordinate craving for titles exists, so long as the American store keeper and will the man as the American hatter, fall an easy victim to the foreign adventurer who comes with a big sounding title. The more names and the longer the title the better.—New York Journal.

Mrs. Siddons' shoes.

"People think that I actually wear Mrs. Siddons' shoes," said Mrs. Ellen Terry, "but of course I don't. I cherish them too dearly for that, and only think they were on the dear, dead lady's feet. A presence on the shoes, which are made of silver satin, bound and trimmed with red silk, adorned with gilt spangles and cold embroidery."

WHAT CAUSES MIRTH?

Sydney Smith's Answer to This Query, with Some Clear Illustrations.

Sydney Smith gave the true answer when he said that the form of mental pleasure we call mirth was due to the discovery of a congruity in a seeming incongruity or the reverse. This is best illustrated by an example. Boileau had a brother who was a mauvais sujet, failed in life and came to ask for help. Boileau upbraided him with his misconduct, pointed out how they had both started in life under equally favorable conditions and with equal chances, and yet how differently they had got on. "Ah! but just think," exclaimed the brother, "what an immense advantage you had over me in brothers!"

The discovery of the point, the seeing of the joke is, says Sydney Smith, analogous to the pleasant mental feeling in discovering something quite new, or in suddenly understanding something dark to us before. This sensation is always pleasant, but in a joke the discovery, since it is carefully prepared for, is momentary, unexpected, and without toil, and therefore far more highly pleasurable than the ordinary mental discovery.

To take another example, that of the wooden pavement before St. Paul's: "If the dean and chapter would only lay their heads together the thing would be done," said Sydney Smith. Here very clearly the fun is in the pleasure occasioned by the instant mental discovery of the connection, notwithstanding the apparent complete incongruity between the heads of the dean and chapter and the wooden pavement.

Now, the slower a mind works the more difficulty it has in quickly following out the congruity through the apparent incongruities, or the incongruity through the apparent congruities, and so in seeing the joke. Men with slow minds, then, prefer the plainest form of discovery, such as the mere noticing that something out of the ordinary is going on, as when a man clowns it by putting on an enormous hat, a carrot wig and a sea green coat. Thus, all stupid and dull witted people are most easily amused by caricature and horse play, and those minds which, though they are powerful, are also sluggish find it too hard work to follow mentally the lightning flash in a finely wrought verbal epigram.

No doubt such a theory as this postulates that the man who likes Lamb and Sydney Smith, but says he sees no joke at all in his buffoonery, really means that he does not care for it because he can see so much more in other things. This, however, agrees with common experience. The man fond of the highest kind of wit is never really unable to see the fun of the clown, though it may bore him by its smallness, and if he is scientifically minded he no more refuses to call it a kind of wit, humor or fun than he does to call vin ordinaire wine, though, as a matter of fact, what he really considers wine is Lafite. All the mirth causing agents are of one kind and differ only in degree, though the degrees are often intense.—London Spectator.

American Bash.

One has only to contemplate the men and their movements about one of the larger hotels to understand just how fast the American people are really living. The commercial men, especially, are living on the lightning plan, and the rest of us are not very far behind. The man who travels extensively today rarely receives any communication except by telegraph. He figures his day's work by the minutes, and estimates just what every second is worth to him. Even the hotel registers are illustrations of the economy of time. The man from Chicago writes it "Chi," Philadelphia is "Phil," Cleveland "Clev," Harrisburg "Hburg," Cincinnati "Cin," and so on through the entire list of American cities with the exception of the man from Boston, and he invariably writes it "Boston, Mass."

He can't afford to sacrifice so great a distinction.—Buffalo Courier.

A Cheerful California Jail.

When the jail was turned over to Sheriff Jennings day before yesterday there were nine persons, mostly tramps, in it. When the prisoners were fed yesterday morning there were ten. During the day there were nine and later in the afternoon there were ten. Investigation was made. The tenth man was discovered to be a tramp, who climbed into the jail at meal times and went out again after getting a full stomach. This, connected with the fact that a man incarcerated for being a common drunk broke his leg trying to get back into jail after having climbed out to get on a spree, and the fact that a man in jail for beating his wife having had a quarrel with a fellow prisoner, climbed out and went a mile to tell the sheriff that the other fellow had punched him in the stomach, will make our jail famous.—Santa Cruz Sun.

When the Queen's Head Was Cut Off.

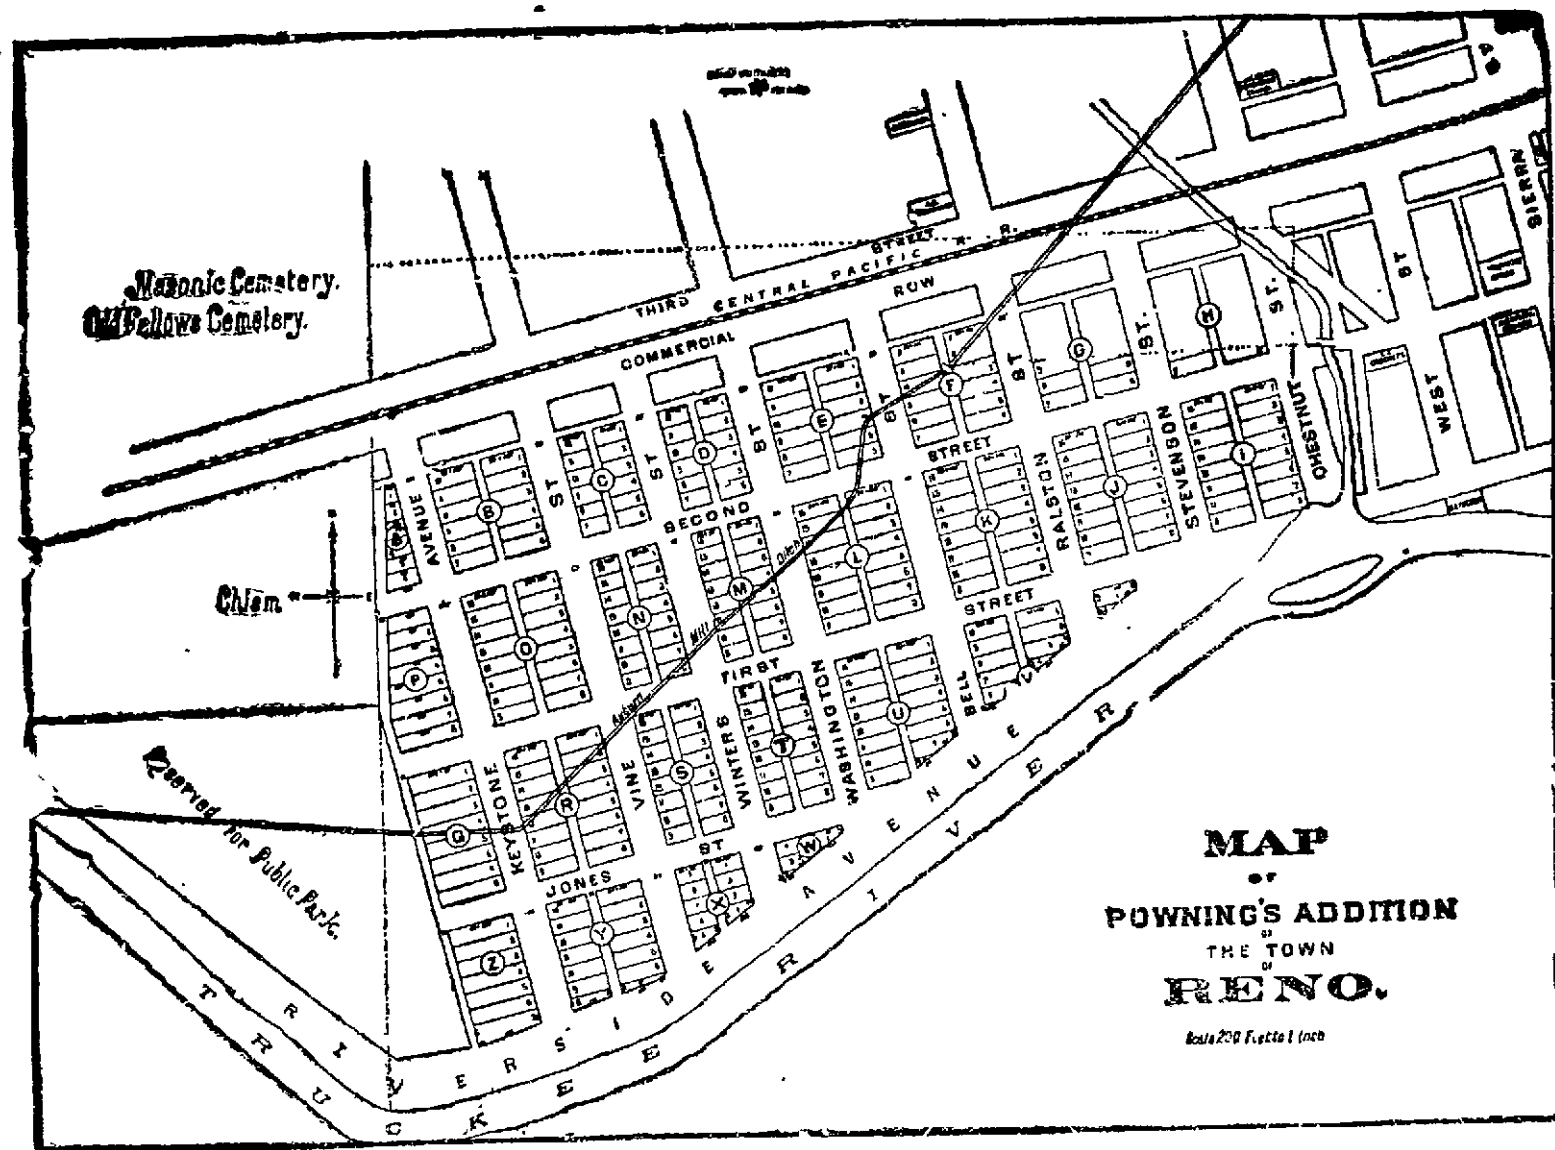

Appropos of the recent articles on the amount of feeling experienced by a victim of decapitation, the following extract describing the execution of the Queen of Scots from the bulky catalogue will interest scientists: At last, while one of the executioners held her straightly with one of his hands, the other gave two strokes with an axe before he did cut off her head, and yet left a little grizzle behind. She made a very small noise, no part stirred from the place where she lay. The executioners lifted up the head, and bade God save the queen. Then his dressings of lams fell from her head, which appeared as gray as if she had been three-score and ten years old, powdered very short. Her face was almost a quarter of an hour after her head was cut off.—Fall Mail Gazette.

The manufacturers claim that their new harness for work horses, which is made of steel and applied in an entirely new way, does not cost half as much as leather harnesses, and will last ten times as long.

The map gives a good idea of the tract, which is situated between the Central Pacific Railroad and the Truckee River, and commences on the west at a point three blocks distant from Virginia Street, making it the most central and convenient of any portion of the rapidly growing town of Reno. Unlike any other part of the town this Addition faces the beautiful Truckee River and Riverside Avenue is certain to become the fashionable driveway of the country. The streets are 80 feet wide, while Riverside and Keystone Avenues are intended to be 100 feet in width. All alleys are 20 feet wide. The soil is a rich gravelly loam, and susceptible of the highest state of cultivation. Being situated as it is it is more safe from fire than any other section. The regular lots are 50x140 feet. The sewerage is perfect.

Before Buying Elsewhere Parties will do Well to Look at These Lots.

RENO

Reno's geographical position is excellent. It is on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad, only 154 miles from Sacramento, and 244 miles from San Francisco. It is the terminus of the Virginia and Truckee Railroad running south, and of the Nevada and California Railroad running north. It has two Flouring Mills, Planing Mills, three Nurseries, a Soap Factory, Reduction Works, and other industries. A great Woolen Mill and a Sash, Door, Blind and Box Factory, are about to be established.

Reno has the Bank of Nevada with $300,000 capital, and the First National Bank with $200,000 capital. It has two fine papers in the DAILY and WEEKLY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL and the Daily and Weekly Gazette.

Reno is the natural home of the Alfalfa, and therefore the great cattle headquarters of the State. Here are fed the prime beef for the California market. Reno potatoes are the best in the world, and she also excels in Strawberries and the small fruits. Reno Wheat took the first prize at the great New Orleans Exposition.

The State Fair is always held at Reno.

Reno is the County Seat of Washoe County, the wealthiest county in Nevada.

RENO

Has no equal in Nevada or California for salubrity of climate, wealth of soil, diversity of products and stability. Situated in the very heart of the celebrated Truckee Meadows the future of Reno is assured. Reno is the City of Homes. There is not a house to rent in Reno. New buildings are occupied as fast as erected. Reno has advantages which no other town can equal. The climate is mild and genial in Winter, and even and healthful in Summer. There are no excessively heated or severely cold terms, and while the days may be warm in Summer the nights are deliciously cool; in Winter sleigh-riding is the exception and not the rule.

Facilities for irrigating surpass any in the State and there is no failure of crops. Reno has Churches of all denominations, Bishop Whitaker's School for Girls, Mt. St. Mary's Academy, the State University, and splendid Public Schools.

The Reno Water Co. furnishes ample pure, cold water for all purposes. The Reno Electric Light Co.'s electric light system, already well established, is being augmented. The Reno Gas Co. supplies gas for all purposes. The streets of Reno are lighted by electricity.
